

My portrait

In this essay, I will describe briefly myself in order to create my portrait.

I will start by describing my thinking and then I will describe my physical appearance.

First of all, I can say that I'm a person that always analyses a situation before jumping to a conclusion, and that I don't usually let my emotions decide for me. Second of all, I can say that even though I love interacting with others, I tend to be shy when meeting new people, especially in new places.

As for my physical appearance, I have a pale face, with brown hair and eyes. My body has a medium athletic build, and I'm 1.89 meters tall.

In conclusion, an objective portrait could always help raise someone's self-confidence.
